

Extract from the Laboratoire Advicenne internal quality policy

The quality policy defines how quality assurance fits into the company's overall strategy. This quality policy is made available to each employee of Laboratoire Advicenne, who undertakes to comply with it. This commitment is made in writing, each time a new update is sent by Quality Assurance.

Laboratoire Advicenne

Laboratoire Advicenne develops and markets innovative treatments designed to meet important medical needs in the field of neurology and nephrology, particularly for orphan diseases.

Laboratoire Advicenne uses and/or holds marketing authorizations for medicines that are the subject of a licence agreement.

As part of the internal development of its medicines, Laboratoire Advicenne also conducts clinical trials, for which it is the sponsor.

The development of new medicines requires the control and auditing of pharmaceutical, clinical and regulatory requirements to ensure product quality and patient safety.

Values and involvement of managers

The values of the company are: integrity, innovation, creativity and enthusiasm.

Laboratoire Advicenne's managers are determined to run a quality policy which complies with these values and which is materialized through:

- The provision of quality medicines for patients
- The provision of quality medical information
- A process of continuous improvement of employee training

Provision of quality medicines for patients

One of Laboratoire Advicenne's aims is to maintain a high level of quality in activities performed in relation to products under development or on the market. This high level of quality is the result of strict adherence to French and European standards and has allowed Laboratoire Advicenne to set up a robust quality system which is regularly improved and updated.
